I thank the Honourable Member for the question.

A priority to Government is increasing home ownership. It also encompasses emergency support to families who require grant assistance to rebuild their uninsured homes that have been destroyed by a disaster that is unforeseen and considered a crisis. This is considering the aftermath of the incident which can be detrimental physically and psychologically to family members.

The Housing Assistance to Fire Victims programme was introduced in 2015 targeted towards families who have had their homes destroyed in the cause of an accidental fire. Families that are assisted through this programme are low and middle income earning households with a total annual income of $50,000 and below. The grant payable to eligible households is up to $5,000. In 2020-2021 financial year, this assistance was extended to rural and maritime areas.

To be eligible for this assistance, the applicant will need to meet certain criterias that includes;

- (i) Fijian citizen and above the age of 18;
- (ii) Total annual household income of $50,000 or below;
- (iii) Evidence to support the ownership of the damaged property and that the applicant occupied the property – in possession of a title, land lease or tenancy at will document;
- (iv) The house is not insured;
- (v) Only property owned by the household;

- (vi) Cause of fire is determined to be accidental – confirmed through a policy report with a report from National Fire Authority;
- (vii) Houses affected in rural and maritime areas have confirmation from the:
 - (a) Provincial Administrator and the office of the Roko Tui confirming the house ownership is within registered village boundaries;
 - (b) Provincial Administrators and the office of the Roko Tui to confirm cause of fire in consultation with National Fire Authority for incidents reported in maritime areas.
