Conducted in 2025 through a partnership between GOF, UNDP, the Centre for Sustainable Peace and Democratic Development (SeeD), and Fiji National University, the assessment measures public perceptions on trust, inclusion, governance, gender equality, and national identity. Findings show that Fiji has strong foundations for social cohesion, with over 80% of iTaukei and Indo-Fijians expressing trust and acceptance of one another, and widespread national pride across communities. There is also strong support for democratic and multi-ethnic governance, with 72% of respondents favouring inclusive systems even at the expense of narrow group interests. However, the assessment also highlights underlying risks, including persistent ethnic stereotypes, uneven trust in institutions, low civic participation, and concerning levels of acceptance of harmful gender norms—particularly among young men. The SCORE findings underscore that while Fiji is peaceful and resilient, social cohesion cannot be taken for granted. Sashi Kiran Minister for Women, Children and Social Protection	Proxy Means Test Update and Government Response to Fuel Price Crisis	Cabinet has approved key reforms to strengthen the Family Assistance Scheme (FAS), Fiji's primary poverty-targeted programme supporting the poorest 10% of households. Recognising that the current system relies on outdated 2008–09 data, Government will implement an updated Proxy Means Test (PMT) based on 2019–20 data, improving targeting accuracy while retaining a hybrid approach that allows welfare officers to include vulnerable groups beyond standard assessments. These reforms align with national goals to reduce poverty and strengthen system fairness, transparency, and efficiency. In response to rising fuel prices and cost of living pressures, Government has also approved a 50% emergency top-up for all social protection beneficiaries from May to July 2026. Payments begin immediately through existing channels, requiring no new applications. This temporary support ensures vulnerable groups can meet essential needs, while safeguards, public guidance, and support hotlines are in place to protect recipients and ensure smooth delivery. The 70th session focused on strengthening access to justice, emphasising the need for inclusive, responsive systems that address barriers such as inequality, violence, and limited access to services. Fiji's participation reinforced its commitment to aligning global priorities with national efforts to improve the lives of women and girls. International Women's Day (IWD), observed on 8 March, complements this global agenda by providing a platform for national reflection and action. In 2026, Fiji marked IWD under the theme "Rights. Justice. Action. – For All Women and Girls," focusing on practical, community-based initiatives across all divisions. These activities delivered services, raised awareness, and promoted women's empowerment, while engaging men and boys as partners in change. 16	25-5-2026	Hon. Esrom Immanuel Minister for Finance, Commerce and Business Development	Update on the Fijian Economy and Fiscal Response to the Global Fuel Crisis	The global economic outlook has deteriorated sharply following the outbreak of conflict in the Middle East and the closure of the Strait of Hormuz, a critical global oil transit route. The conflict has disrupted the earlier recovery momentum in the global economy and triggered a severe surge in crude and refined fuel prices, alongside rising freight, insurance, and supply chain costs. As a small, open and import-dependent economy, Fiji remains highly vulnerable to these external shocks, with rising fuel costs already placing pressure on inflation, transportation, businesses, tourism, Government finances and the balance of payments. The impact is increasingly evident across critical sectors, including electricity generation, aviation, public transport and fuel distribution, where escalating costs threaten essential services and broader economic stability. In response, Government is actively engaging with international partners to secure fuel supplies and is taking measured and well-calibrated steps to minimize disruptions and protect the economy and livelihoods of Fijians. 37	20-8-2026	Hon. Sakiasi Dītoka Minister for Foreign Affairs and External Trade	A vision of active, independent and practical diplomacy anchored firmly in Fiji’s national interest	The statement will present a vision of active, independent and practical diplomacy anchored firmly in Fiji’s national interest. It argues that foreign policy must translate international relationships into tangible benefits for Fiji — greater market access, investment, employment, energy security, development assistance, technology, protection for Fijians overseas, and a more peaceful and secure Pacific. A major theme is the shift from planning to implementation following the 2026–2027 Budget. Fiji’s overseas Missions are described not simply as diplomatic posts but as extensions of the country’s national development effort, with a stronger mandate to pursue trade, investment, development opportunities, diaspora engagement and support for exporters. The speech then sets out several priority areas: • Economic diplomacy: Fiji wants to turn diplomatic relationships into commercial opportunities. The NZD $2 billion Fiji–New Zealand trade target is presented as requiring substantially more Fijian exports, not simply increased imports. The kava example shows how diplomacy, standards, market access, and the livelihoods of rural communities are interconnected. • Malaysia and Korea: The reopening of the Kuala Lumpur Mission and engagement with Korea are positioned as opportunities to expand trade, investment, tourism, education, technology and energy cooperation. • Energy security: Recent global disruptions have exposed Fiji’s vulnerability to fuel-market and supply-chain shocks. The speech highlights discussions with PETRONAS and Korea on fuel storage, stockpiling, strategic petroleum reserves, renewable energy and Fiji’s National Fuel Security Strategy. Fiji’s role as a Pacific logistics and fuel hub gives this a wider regional dimension. • Pacific leadership: Fiji seeks to shape, rather than merely participate in, regional affairs. The Ocean of Peace concept is presented as meaning dialogue, sovereignty, transparency, international law and freedom for Pacific states to maintain relationships with all partners without being forced into geopolitical camps. • Climate diplomacy: Hosting Pre-COP31 is portrayed as an opportunity to bring global decision-makers into the Pacific and make the region’s lived experience of climate change impossible to ignore. The speech strongly rejects the characterisation of Fiji as dependent on Australia for hosting the event. • Partnerships that deliver domestically: International partnerships are justified where they strengthen Fiji-led national priorities. The Australian FJ$23.5 million HIV support is used as an example of a partnership that reinforces, rather than substitutes for, Fiji’s own response. • Protecting exporters: Fiji must actively monitor changing international trade policies, including US tariff measures, and provide exporters with reliable information rather than speculation. • Multilateral diplomacy and peacekeeping: Fiji’s engagement with the UN, climate resilience, oceans governance, disaster risk reduction, digital transformation and Artificial Intelligence are linked to the interests of a small island developing state. It also emphasises its long-standing UN peacekeeping contribution as an important expression of Fiji’s international role. Fiji should use diplomacy as an instrument of national development, while protecting its sovereignty and maintaining strategic freedom. The closing reinforces four ambitions: sovereignty, global connectivity, constructive Pacific leadership and tangible economic prosperity.	The Leader of the Opposition the Hon. Inia Seruiratu subsequently responded
38	20-8-2026	Hon. The evaluation is critical to protecting Fiji’s economic integrity, financial sovereignty, and international reputation. The statement will highlight Fiji’s key money laundering risks, including transnational drug trafficking, organized crime, tax evasion, corruption, and illegal fishing. The Government has strengthened coordination among agencies such as the FIU, Fiji Police Force, FICAC, FRCS, the Reserve Bank, and the ODPP to improve enforcement, intelligence sharing, and compliance with international standards set by the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) and the Asia Pacific Group on Money Laundering (APG). A successful evaluation is essential to maintaining correspondent banking relationships, attracting foreign investment and climate finance, supporting trade, and avoiding grey-listing. The Government remains committed to ensuring Fiji is recognized as a trusted, secure, and compliant financial jurisdiction.	The Hon. Premila Kumar subsequently responded
